10. Research Centre Budget
1. The aims for the Primary English and Children’s Literature Research Centre team in 2007-2008 have been to

- continue to develop the publications profile
- consolidate the work on projects previously set up
- develop collaborative projects with other institutions
- develop new research project opportunities suitable for funding bids
- extend the Worcester Storytelling Festival
- develop the collection resources of the Centre
- continue to develop the local, national and international recognition of the Centre

2. Staffing

Prof. Jean Webb: Co-Director and Children’s Literature
Dr Robyn Cox: Co-Director, Literacy and Primary English

Dr. Bob Fox and Dr Stephen Bigger: retired from full-time work during this academic year.
They retain association with the Centre.

Hon. Professor: Prof Maria Nikolajeva.

Rachel Johnson Research Librarian – Collections development & maintenance of the Collections.

Prof Maria Nikolajeva was appointed to a Chair in Children’s Literature at the University of Cambridge, at Homerton. She took up the post in Sept. 2008 and has expressed her warm interest in being able to develop her associations further with the Centre now that she is permanently resident in the UK.

i Research students with Directors of Study and internal supervisors

Full-time:
Research studentship Maya Das unfortunately had to withdraw because of personal reasons. The studentship was restored to the 3 years funding by the Executive Management. Publicised in summer 08 the successful candidate was Laura Jones who starts in Sept. 2008. (JAW, Dr Andreas Mueller, Dr Paddy McNally)

Part-time:
Pippa Abbott (BF & JAW)
Lone Hattinge (RC)
Rachel Johnson (JAW) – thesis submitted Summer 08.
Steve Arnott (JAW & BF)
Fawzia Gilani-Williams (JAW; RC; SB)

ii Associated colleagues at UW:

Storytelling Festival Team: Steve Boffy, David Broster, Maureen Gamble, Rachel Johnson, Andy Stevenson.
Olympic Storytelling Project: Prof James Riordan, Dr Derek Peters, Steve Arnott
Obesity Project: Dr Derek Peters
Dr Claire Cochrane, consultation on potential projects

iii Administration Carolyn Ralphs at Faculty level for budget and administrative support for RLF Fellows.
iv Time allocation for staffing to the Centre was 1 module relief from teaching from AH&SS for Jean Webb plus a further 1 module research time. Otherwise work has been carried out by Centre colleagues in their contractual allocations for research and scholarly development, and in their personal time.

3. Overview and commentary
The past year has seen a continuation of the considerable level of activity and strengthening of the national and international profile of the Centre regarding research; collaborative projects, the development of funding bids; the extension and development of resources; conference attendance and publication by Centre members and research students.

As the Centre has developed over the past year there is a clear distinctiveness about the research carried out which clearly demonstrates an interdisciplinary approach; the consciousness of engagement with subject development from international perspectives; a strong sense of cultural consciousness with the interpretation of text as being central. In terms of activities, the Centre has continued with a strong inclusively ‘outreach’ approach adding to the cultural experience and awareness within the region.

4. Funding.
Expenditure
As previously the overall expenditure from the Centre budget has been low this year, and has been directed towards necessary expenses in the support of research; and conference presentations.

- The Children’s Storytelling Festival was supported by external bids made by Steve Boffy on behalf of the festival.
- Jean Webb was supported for conferences by AH&SS.
- The scanning and preparation of the ‘Doll’ manuscript for editing was carried out by a volunteer who was paid an honorarium from the AH&SS research fund.
- Additions to the Collections and expendable materials were supported by a separate Collections budget from ILS.

There was no direct income into the Centre budget this year as expenses outlined were covered by alternative means.

5. Funding bids
No funding bids were made this year directly from the Centre, since preparations were made for bids to be put in during the next academic year as follows:

- Association of Commonwealth Universities/British Academy Visiting Researcher: completed Sept 08: Dr Anto Chakramakkil, ChLA India was the supported applicant.
- AHRC Obesity Research Network funding: collaborative project JAW & team members: Prof Al-Nakeeb, Newman University College Birmingham; Dr Derek Peters, UW.
- PhD Studentship applied for at UW; not successful

6. Key areas of activity:

The activities of the Centre can broadly be divided into 3 areas which are inter-related:

I. Events
II. Collaborative research and development
III. Individual research activities by team members.
Royal Literary Fund Contract renewed. Brian Morse sadly died in Oct 2007. His RLF contract was taken up by Lyn Webster Wilde in addition to her extant hours as the other RLF WiR. The programme was busier than ever. The contract was renewed for a further year and will be taken up by Heather Dyer in Sept 0. Heather Dyer is also a successful children’s author. Lyn Webster Wilde completed her three year maximum contract from the RLF. She is warmly thanked for her hard work, professionalism and enthusiasm in the post and her considerable contribution to UW.

6.1 Events

6.1.1 Worcester Children’s Storytelling and Media Festival:
   i. Steve Boffy’s support as Arts Advisory Officer was invaluable enabling the Festival to be extended and the children to enjoy enhanced facilities on campus, since Steve secured funding to hire a yurt for the storytelling and also for performers.
   ii. The programme was extended this year by one day and also by bringing in children from Herefordshire schools.
   iii. We were also able to work with artists and performers new to the Festival, such as the Puppetlink company and Kat Wetherall, storyteller.
   iv. We continue to collaborate successfully with Worcester City Children’s Library in the provision of a storyteller which they funded and a day of storytelling in the City Library.
   v. Circa 240 children attended on campus over the 2 days, plus teachers and helpers. Student involvement was strong from Drama, Education, Student Ambassadors and IT (in the creation of the website). It was a most successful event, with the planning and organisation running very smoothly.
   vi. The events for 2008 were:
      vii. Storytelling in the yurt with Kat Wetherall viii. Creative art workshop
      ix. Interactive Drama performance by The Attic Company, devised and directed by David Broster
      x. Puppetlink performance
      xi. Storyteller in the Worcester City Children’s Library
      xii. Sponsorship in the form of fruit for refreshments for the children was very generously provided by Gwillam’s farm Shop Worcester.
      xiii. The Team will work on a Festival for 2008-09 to be delivered in June 09.

6.1.2 City Event: Michael Rosen & Michael Morpurgo.
   i. An event is planned to take place for children and parents in Worcester in Autumn 2008. Funding has been applied for by Steve Boffy, to be confirmed.

6.1.3 Extra Mural Activities. Through the Worcester Storytelling Festival and contacts made via Steve Boffy there are a number of writers who have expressed a desire to work with the Centre, for example Karen Wallace, an award winning writer for children. These events fit in with the programme of extra mural activities being organized by Dr Julie Maclusky (IHCA) who is an expert in creative writing.

6.1.4 Wychewood Festival Cheltenham.
   i. Through a contact via Dr Jill Terry the Centre was asked if we would be interested in participating in a consultative capacity in a developing section of the Wychewood festival Cheltenham.
   ii. A meeting has been held with Steve Boffy, the Wychewood organizer, JT & JAW to discuss possibilities and sponsorship from UW to promote the profile of the University in the region.
6.II Collaborative research and development.

6.II.1 Obesity and Children’s Literature project

i. JAW, Dr Derek Peters (Sports Science) and Prof Yahya Al-Nakeeb (Newman University College, Birmingham) have brought together a multidisciplinary and international group to apply for a major funding bid 2008-09. Focus thus far on an international research network. Colleagues, for example, in the US, Estonia and Norway have expressed their interest and support.

ii. The Wellcome Trust have been contacted by JAW for advice on the viability of an interdisciplinary project funded by them. Prof Al-Nakeeb has carried out research into viability of funding from other bodies e.g. ESRC & AHRC.

iii. A conference is planned for Autumn 2008 at Newman University College, funded by Newman. The conference will stimulate interest from interested parties and outside bodies. Papers to be given by Prof Al-Nakeeb, DP, JW & others.

iv. JAW gave a research seminar paper on obesity and children’s literature at Newman, Summer 08.

v. The project continues to stimulate interest from the media. Ann Diamond, media journalist, contacted JAW and would be interested in coming to Worcester to speak as she is preparing a book on obesity. JAW was consulted about her work by Ann Diamond in relation to Ms Diamond’s research for her book.

6.II.2 India.

i. JAW & Rachel Johnson gave papers at the ChLA India conference in Mangalore, January 2008 organised by Anto Thomas Chakramakkil (see below individual research). Work is ongoing to support the work of the Children’s Literature Research Centre in India.

ii. JAW is editing a collection of essays from the conference and preparing a book proposal to be submitted to CSP.

iii. A bid to the Association of Commonwealth of Universities/British Academy Visiting Fellowship fund was prepared and submitted Sept 08. The proposed two month visit by Dr Chakramakkil will focus on the construction of India and Indian identity in Indian, British Asian and English fiction for children.

6.II.3 Visiting Researcher Leverhulme/UW Development of a bid to Leverhulme for a Visiting Researcher. This is through collaboration with Prof Mavis Reimer, University of Winnipeg. The project will focus on the construction of multi-cultural identities through children’s literature. Proforma B was submitted in Sept 08.

6.II.4 Olympic storytelling project

i. Team: Jim Riordan (Sports Vis. Prof) - stories Robyn Cox (Education.) teaching materials and trialling in schools; Derek Peters (Sports) – advisor sports & health. JAW. Illustrations Steve Arnott, Wolverhampton.

ii. Robyn Cox has carried out research in schools on children’s critical approaches. This has been fed back to Jim Riordan, and a similar process will be engaged in with Steve Arnott’s illustrations for the collection of stories.

iii. The team is planning publication of the stories. Funding for this project has been provided by IHAC.

iv. RC & JAW met with a SAGE publications commissioning editor, June 08. Subsequently RC & JAW are working on a book proposal to SAGE Childist Criticism: an applied approach.
6.11.5 Writers and Artists Collaborative group.
Following on the success of the Storytelling Festival and the increasing engagement of writers and creative artists from the region with the Centre, the idea of a collaborative group associated with the centre and UW is being developed by the Centre team and Steve Boffy. Anne Hannaford has also expressed an interest, as this will look forward to the new UW library development in the city.

6.11.6 Text messaging and stories.
   i. Team: Dr Clare Wood, University of Coventry and Dr Robyn Cox, Education UW & JAW.
   ii. As part of the research collaboration day with Coventry University organised by Geoffrey Elliott, Summer 08, a collaborative project has been developed by the team to determine the efficacy of text messaging as a platform for composing stories/literature for children and the development of literacy.
   iii. The project will also develop a methodology for bringing children’s authors and children together in the composing process via the use of new technologies.
   iv. A collaborative funding bid will be made. Dr Wood already has a track record in research in the children’s use of mobile ‘phones.
   v. Internal seedcorn funding is being sought internally at UW re: Knowledge Transfer.

6.11.7 Autobiographies of Childhood.
   i. JAW with Dr Andrea Petersen, Education University of Birmingham. Dr Petersen has been carrying out research on the collection of autobiographies of childhood held by the Centre.
   ii. They are planning a co-authored book.
   iii. A joint funded research studentship will be applied for either at UW or Birmingham, 2008-09.

6.11.8 International Youth Library, Munich and an International Research Network.
   i. JAW met with Dr Christana Raabe, Director of the IYL, Munich to discuss collaboration. The possibility of a research network was discussed. JAW wrote a concept paper and submitted it to Dr Raabe as requested. She has yet to respond.

6.11.9 Folklore:
   i. Dr Mikel Koven is an internationally recognised expert on folklore and is very active, for example in the Folklore Society. MK & JAW are developing associations variously to incorporate this work into the Centre. For example, MK has developed a strong association with John Turrell (previously a part-time PhD student with JAW) who has a unique research collection of children’s playground games stories and songs in Herefordshire over the past 30 years. Mr. Turrell is very keen to continue his work and association with the Centre.

6.11.10 On-line Journal in Children’s Literature, Literacy and Creativity.
In development: Stephen Bigger, JAW & RC.

6.11.11 Centre Seminar series Development of a regional and national seminar series which will be put into operation in 2008-09. JAW, RC.
