

Policy statement: depositing research data sets/raw data in WRaP

Data sets/research data are not included within the current scope of WRaP. We recommend data sets be deposited in relevant data repositories. A bibliographic entry can be made in WRaP with a link to the relevant data repository; in the absence of a relevant data repository a bibliographic entry can be made, and access to data can be granted by email requests to the researcher.

Across the sector there are a mixture of approaches to data deposits in institutional repositories. Some Universities have developed separate data repositories, others are following our current practice of recommending deposits in external data repositories, whilst a few Universities do have capacity for research data to be deposited in one institutional repository.
